DOMAINE FONTVAL

Rosé 2020

All you need to know about French Rosé

VINEYARDS

This family Domaine is established since 1925 in the village of Ansois. Nestled in a privileged natural environment between the plane of the river Durance and the southern hills of the Luberon massif the 12 hectares vineyard enjoys a preserved ecosystem. The Consolin family is aware of this exceptional asset and implements an approach that is in line with the principles of reasoned agriculture: preserving both the environment and health by adapting methods to the local ecosystem and considering natural biological regulation mechanisms. In addition to ensuring continuous quality improvement, this approach also led to the Domaine obtaining the Agricofiancé label in 2010.

WINEMAKING

The grapes are pressed immediately after picking early in the morning, followed by fermentation of juices at controlled temperature.

TASTING NOTE

Beautiful, brilliant pale pink color. Pleasant nose offering aromas of red berries with subtle notes of raspberries. The mouthfeel is fresh and fruity and boasts a remarkably long finish.
